

Step and a Half: Melody Training

Easy Ear Training's app Step and a Half, available in the iTunes store for the iPhone and iPod Touch, builds on the interval recognition taught in our first app, RelativePitch, and is a great learning aid for those interested in ear training, music education or just music in general.

As you spend time with Step and a Half, you'll find your ear is more and more able to pick apart melodies into their underlying intervals. Eventually you'll find this increased accuracy of hearing will also help you judge harmonies, and you'll be able to make the leap directly from hearing something to playing it on your instrument, without thinking through the intervals beforehand.

Step and a Half is part of the Easy Ear Training family - we believe that ear training should be easy, fun and effective. Our first app, RelativePitch, is rated 4.5 stars from over 200 reviews and was featured by Apple on the App Store front page in 2009.

Here's what users have been saying about Step and a Half:

"Weirdly designed application that has you moving tiles to represent intervals in a melody. Fantastic, and very difficult for some of us."

"This is the perfect companion to RelativePitch app."

"This app fills a void in the ear training genre (to my knowledge) that was desperately needed."
